

19th May 2023

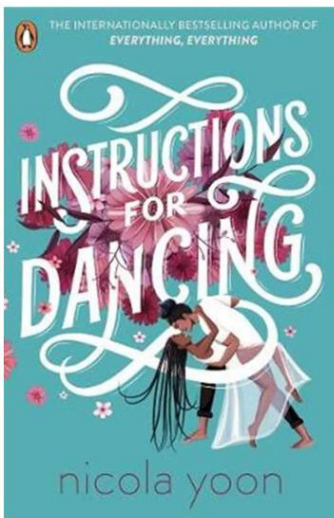

Dear Parent(s) and Carer(s)

A big shout out to the year 11s who have started their GCSE exams properly this week. They have been very mature and hard-working in what is a stressful time for them. Their approach is testament to all the work that Albright staff and their families have put into supporting them. Well done everyone – keep it up.

This week we have welcomed visitors from other Alternative Provisions who have come to see the amazing work that goes on here... such is the good practice, Albright is held as a shining beacon for how therapeutic and supportive practices can work alongside traditional academic education. I am so proud of how we are viewed across the authority and also further afield. It is always lovely to have opportunities to show off what we do!

This half term is flying by – one more week to go before we break up for the Spring Bank Holiday. This will be the perfect opportunity to get to grips with the new feature in our newsletter – Book and Film recommendations!! If anyone wants to contribute to this feature please do get your suggestions into me ... we all love a good recommendation!!

Mrs Deeks' recommended book of the week:

Meet Evie Thomas. A once passionate reader of all things romance, but now someone who has fallen out with the very idea of love completely.

Then on one magical afternoon she is given a book called 'Instructions for Dancing' which will lead her to places and people that will challenge her very idea of what it is to love.

A fantastic read which gives a fresh and modern take on the 'romance novel', breaking down all clichés.

Appropriate for readers from year 10 upwards.

Mr Panjanaden's recommended book of the week:

An unforgettable true classic which though set in the 80's never gets old!

The enigmatic Marty McFly teams up with the 'mad scientist' Doc, travelling through time to see what the future could look like if present decisions aren't changed!

If you've not seen this then it is a must. Settle down on that sofa, stock up on some popcorn and get ready for a real adventure.

HOME & HOSPITAL TUITION SERVICE

Albright Education Centre
South Tipton Campus Site
Alexandra Road
Tipton
West Midlands
DY4 7NR

Telephone: 0121 533 5806

Let us know what you think of our Mrs Deeks' and Mr Panjanaden's recommendations!

Have a brilliant weekend everyone (and don't forget to do some revision year 11!)

Mrs Hazelwood